Arkansan Killed in Thailand
PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — M. Sgt. Harlan E. Houston, 38, a native of Paragould, was shot and killed Wednesday in Thailand while serving with the Air Force. It was learned Thursday. His mother, Mrs. Pearl C. Tyland, said she was notified her son had been shot in the head.

Rules Group Can Meet Anywhere

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office ruled Thursday that the state Board of Education, which several years ago inadvertently booked a hearing in the men's restroom at the capitol, can meet any place convenient to the board members.

The opinion, written by Deputy Atty. Gen. Rodney Parham, said the law provides for proper hearing notices, setting the time and place for hearings and board meetings, but allows the board to meet at any convenient place it designates.

PEACHY HOBBY involves Morris Michelson, 85, of Hollywood, Fla. Michelson, a retired watchmaker, makes figure carvings from peach pits which the neighborhood children collect for him. Treating each of his carvings as a personal friend, Michelson refuses to sell any of them. His collection includes replicas of cars, planes, rocking chairs, people and animals.

Gould School Told to Drop Dual System

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Gordon E. Young ordered the Gould School District Thursday to eliminate its dual school system by the opening of school Sept. 2.

Young said the district must establish "what the (U.S.) Supreme Court called the unitary school system" and that it might adopt its own desegregation plan utilizing attendance zones or school consolidation.

The judge said a plan must be presented to him before the opening of school. If the board fails to adopt a feasible plan, he said, he will order one based on geographical zones.

The Supreme Court declared Gould's freedom-of-choice plan unconstitutional May 27. In this ruling, the court held that freedom-of-choice was unacceptable if better methods were available.

Young said the Gould district "stands in a different light from other districts" because of the high court's decision. "This leaves me no freedom of latitude but to enforce the decision," he said.

He told the School Board it appeared obvious the district had taken "no steps to implement the Supreme Court's decision."

Young said if the board failed to adopt a feasible plan on its own, he would order one under which geographical zones would be placed in effect for students who ordinarily walk to and from school or furnish their own transportation.

Under his plan, he said, pupils who ride to schools in buses would be assigned to classes in such a manner that each class ratio would approximate the racial ratio in the district, which has 274 white pupils and 666 Negro pupils.

There are more bus pupils. The district sought permission to continue its freedom-of-choice plan for the 1968-69 school year. Young's decision was handed down after a 1½-hour hearing.

W.C. Shepherd Jr., School Board president, said after Young's decision he thought many white students would leave the school district if the judge's plan were implemented.

The district has two elementary-high school complexes. District officials estimate that under the freedom-of-choice ing the power of eminent domain to anhydrous ammonia pipelines to aid the Arkansas Chemical Corp., a subsidiary of the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.

Crank also told newsmen he would be willing to debate Rockefeller if he gets the Democratic nomination, he opposed the gun control bill proposed by the chiefs of police, a light voter turnout next Tuesday would hurt him, but that he was not fearful of voter complacency, and that he disagreed with Mrs. Johnson's proposal to allow sportsmen to nominate members of the state Game and Fish Commission.

The candidate also said he didn't see how Rockefeller could run against Crank's legislative record, especially since Cass Hough of Rogers, in nominating Rockefeller as a favorite son candidate for president at the Republican National Convention, had said Rockefeller had accomplished more with a Democratic legislature than any Democratic governor had.

Crank said at the rally that he would propose and establish an agency for river development, to fully exploit the federal money that has gone into the state's rivers. He also was critical of several state agencies headed by administration appointees, singling out the state prisons and Welfare Department for special comment.

about 512 Negroes would attend the all-Negro Fields School and about 274 whites and 73 Negroes would attend the formerly all-white Gould school. Shepherd said the district didn't have the money to convert one of the schools to a high school and one to an elementary school to serve all pupils.

State School Districts Owe $183 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas school districts owed $22 million more in debts on June 30 than they did 12 months earlier, the state Education Department said Thursday.

The department's report said the 395 districts owed $183,901,160 in outstanding loans and bonded debt on June 30.

The report said the average tax for Arkansas districts was 43.48 mills, with 19.76 going for interest, principle and other debt costs, compared to 42.81, with 19.52 for debt service, in the 1967 report.

Act 38 of 1961 permits a school district to borrow in excess of 15 per cent of its latest assessed valuation. A district may borrow up to 18 per cent of its valuation if the state Board of Education decides the district cannot build and equip needed school buildings because of expected or extreme hardship.

The five districts with the largest indebtedness in terms of dollars were the Little Rock School District at $15,527,000, the Pulaski County (Rural) Special School District at $9,979,500, the Fort Smith School District at $8,980,300, the Pine Bluff School District at $6,833,450 and the North Little Rock School District at $5,302,650.

The five districts with the largest debts in terms of percentage of their assessed valuation were the Woodlawn District in Cleveland County at 18.5 per cent, the Mansfield District in Sebastian County at 18.1 per cent, the Sparkman District in Dallas County and the Greenwood District in Sebastian County, both at 17.5 per cent, and the Hartford District in Sebastian County at 17.4 per cent.

pressway on the south, the North-South Expressway on the east and Northwest 22nd Avenue on the west.

As the curfew was imposed for the first time Thursday night, National Guard troop carriers swept the streets, huge searchlights swinging slowly from side to side.

"We're going to clean these streets," one officer barked to his men. "We're taking no bull this time."

Later, a National Guard spokesman said that "once the sweep started, there was no trouble at all."

But, as the impressive show of force brought quiet to Liberty City, new trouble erupted in the Central Negro District.

Sgt. James H. Tomlin, a wounded Miami policeman, said a volley of shots was fired from a rooftop at Northwest 22nd Street and Northwest 3rd Avenue.

E. Jest Cleveland, a Miami Beach car washer, was shot in the head and toppled from the porch of his apartment. A Negro woman, Willie Mae Grant, was shot in the left arm as she stood on the same porch.

Bands of young Negroes roamed the central district, smashing store and car windows, and shortly after midnight City Manager Melvin Reese also ordered a curfew for that area. By dawn, the trouble had petered out.

Two other deaths occurred during Wednesday's rioting. One woman died of a heart attack while sitting on her front porch. An unidentified Negro man found dead in Liberty City was reported by the medical examiner's office to have succumbed to natural causes.

After the shooting broke out, police cruisers roared through Liberty City, breaking up gangs with teargas bombs and arresting 148 persons. The charges included looting, aggravated assault, resisting arrest and carrying concealed weapons.

The looting and shooting began Wednesday after a meeting called by Negro leaders to protest what they termed "Florida's lily-white" delegation to the Republican National Convention under way on nearby Miami Beach.

Although police and city officials declared an "all quiet" early Thursday after several hours of sporadic gunfire, burning and looting, tensions remained high and trouble started again in Liberty City in the afternoon when snipers began shooting at police cruisers.

The sharp crack of light weapons and the heavy boom of shotguns sounded as mobs looted and burned. A thick pall of tear gas and smoke from two fire-bombed buildings enveloped a two-block area at the center of the riot area.

The National Guard was summoned, and troops began sweeps through the trouble area. Residents were told to clear the streets or face immediate arrest. The order to "Go home Go home" blared from bull horns and loudspeakers. "Go home yourself," a man shouted back. "We live here."

When patrolling guardsmen came on groups of Negroes, they bowled canisters of tear gas down the sidewalks scatter-

Wolfson Found Guilty of Violations

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis E. Wolfson, whose financial dealings dazzled Wall Street in the 1950s, and three associates have been found guilty of violating the Securities and Exchange Commission Act.

The 55-year-old multimillionaire financier was convicted by a federal jury Thursday on charges of perjury, subordination of perjury, obstruction of justice, concealing documents and filing false statements with the SEC.

Wolfson, chairman of Merritt-Chapman & Scott, a worldwide construction-shipping-chemicals firm now in liquidation, faces up to 14 years in prison and a $32,000 fine.

Convicted with him were Elkin B. Gerbert of Jacksonville, Fla., a Merritt-Chapman director; Marshall G. Staub of New York, president of the company; and Joseph Kosow, whose Boston financing firm was acquired by Merritt-Chapman in 1962.

The verdict was delivered by a jury of nine men and three women on government charges that the four defendants conspired to enter into a secret agreement whereby Kosow bought Merritt-Chapman stock on the open market, then sold it back to the corporation later at "an agreed price well above the market price at the time of the agreement."

The government claimed the participants in the deal made a $4 million profit. The alleged agreements were uncovered during an SEC investigation of the behavior of Merritt-Chapman stock, the government said.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said that during the SEC inquiry of Merritt-Chapman's "buy-in" program the defendants agreed among themselves "to destroy documents, commit perjury and suborn the perjury of other witnesses."

Early in the eight-week trial, U.S. District Judge Edmund L. Palmieri dropped fraud and stock manipulation charges contained in the original indictment. He directed the jury Wednesday to deliberate only the alleged coverup, cautioning "this is not a stock fraud trial."

The panel found the defendants guilty of various maneuvers, including perjury conspiracy, to cover up the stock deal during the SEC probe, Wolfson and Gerbert were found guilty of actual perjury and the filing of false company reports in 1962 and 1963, Staub was also convicted of making false statements in Merritt-Chapman annual reports.

The defendants' lawyers moved immediately to appeal the verdicts.

A fifth defendant, Alexander Rittmaster, 50, a Merritt director, pleaded guilty to one count of the indictment early in the trial and became a government witness. He is awaiting sentence.

signed to dramatize the family as the basis of all that is good across our land today.

THE WHITE HOUSE FAMILY REUNION DAY BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION
Since the founding of the Republic, the American family has been a source of individual strength and national stability. These are times, however, that test the unity of family life. Progress — social, economic, and technological — has brought with it new mobility that tends to separate the members of affluent families.

For millions of other Americans, poverty, discrimination and spiritual deprivation of slum life have strained the cohesion of family units past the breaking point. Many young people are growing up without the shaping example of a firm, responsible, and caring male in the household. There are strengths within almost all families, whether or not headed by a father; but history and instinct tell us that a society that does not encourage responsible fatherhood will pay for its failure in later generations. For that reason, action to extend job opportunities, to improve education and housing, and to end discrimination in all its forms is vital to stronger family life — and ultimately to a more just and peaceful nation.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LYNDON B. JOHNSON, President of the United States of America, pursuant to Senate Joint Resolution 165, do hereby designate Sunday August 11, 1968, as Family Reunion Day, and I urge all the people of the United States to support those actions that will strengthen the American family, and to celebrate this day with such ceremonies as will re-emphasize our continuing belief that family life is the highest and most enduring product of our civilization.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this eighth day of July, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and sixty-eight, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninety-third.

LYNDON B. JOHNSON

that no civil rights can be realistically achieved without the restoration of order, without an abandonment of the condoning of civil disobedience.

To the convention, he proclaimed, "Racial discrimination, unfair and unequal education and unequal job opportunities must be eliminated no matter whom it displeases."

At the same time, he said, "Anarchy, rioting and even the currently stylish civil disobedience has no part in a constitutional republic."

Agnew's record as Maryland governor is marked by controversy over these two beliefs.

He won election over an advocate of separatism in housing, helped win passage of a limited open housing law, and has come out since in support of an all-inclusive open housing guarantee.

But he tongue-lashed Negro leaders, blaming them for inaction during the Baltimore riots in April, and triggered a walk-out by most of them. He also indicated looters who refuse to obey police orders to stop should be shot.

Agnew said two months ago that he would not have permitted the Poor People's Campaign to set up its shantytown in Washington. He has been questioned so often about the import of his statements on civil disorders that he has said, "I resent that my statements on law and order are interpreted to mean anti-Negro."

He told the news conference, "I will work enthusiastically in civil rights, I think that's one of the reasons I'm on this ticket."

After war service in the Middle East, Finch returned to Australia and formed a small road company. Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh, there on tour, saw him give a performance to a glass factory audience, promptly invited him to join them in London, where his career steadily blossomed. He has appeared in some 8 plays and 30 pictures.

A dedicated but light-hearted craftsman with whom other performers like to work, Peter isn't overwhelmed by the entertainment industry.

"Acting is not important really," he remarked. "But as someone once said, 'Actors are a curious breed who, if they do no appreciable good, certainly do no harm.'"

"I also like what Spencer Tracy said, 'Acting is a pretty lowly profession, perhaps the lowest. But now and then a politician gives us a chance to look down.'"

Peter prefers to live modestly by choice and also because, as he said a big wryly, "I have two ex-wives and a government to support."

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The announcement last week that Westinghouse was absorbing MCA struck the film industry with thunderbolt surprise.

There had been rumors that other producing companies would be taken over by giant corporations, but MCA was expected to continue going it alone. MCA, which controls Universal Pictures—features and television series—and Decca Records, has been in sound financial condition, with profits of $15.5 million in 1967.

The two mentors of MCA—Jules Stein, board chairman, and Lew Wasserman, president—seemed to be go-it-alone types. Before acquiring Universal Studios, they operated MCA as a talent agency in an independent manner.

But the logic of merging with the immense—1967 net income: $122.5 million—Westinghouse Electric Corp. was overwhelming. The move offered a great financial advantage to Stein and Wasserman, who control 41 percent of the MCA stock. Trade sources indicated that the two men would not be required to pay capital gain taxes when they exchange their MCA stock for Westinghouse.

Two other film companies have followed the same course. United Artists was absorbed by the huge California-based financial corporation, Transamerica. Paramount was taken over by the conglomerate, Gulf and Western.

Such affiliations offer distinct advantages for the film companies, most of which have followed independent courses since their beginnings. Movie production requires heavy capitalization, and the studios have had to rely on financing from leading banks. With a huge corporation standing behind a studio, the financing of films becomes much easier.

In the past two years, the film companies have become attractive investments. The reasons are two-fold:

1. Financiers have become aware of the immense value of the studios' backlogs of films in terms of their release to television. With the networks relying more and more on movies to fill their programming, the price tag on films continues to grow.

2. Corporations are looking for investments in the leisure time market, which will become more important as Americans have more time and money to spend on nonwork activities.

WOMEN ARE THE PREDATORS, SAYS MAN

Dear Helen: I don't buy this "It was all his fault" bit. Any high school girl these days is completely versed in sex education. She knows where babies come from. Yet when she gets in trouble, she points out how naive she was and how the boy cleverly seduced her.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Take it from an old roue who tripped the primrose path in his teens and twenties. I was the type referred to as tall, dark and handsome, and had begun to think I was irresistible to females. Along about age-30 I suddenly realized the tag of "wolf" attached to men was a clever switch by girls, when actually the girls were the predators. For all their airs of "sweet innocence," their wiles, charms and seductive manner showed they were on the make for ME, not vice versa.

As for the poor divorcees who protest that all men assume she is sex-starved and strive to correct the situation: Few men try, who are not encouraged, and if woman has the courage to try they do a simple, "Knock it off, what's new and the discretion Buster, I don't play that way."

is enough to set them straight. The truth is most women want a man to make a pass, as this flatters their ego and makes them feel wanted. If no man did, they would assume they had lost their sex appeal and would cry themselves to sleep.

Why don't women stop deluding themselves?—VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Dear Voice: You might as well ask, "Why don't women stop being women?" They're products of the "image" men have had of them over the centuries.

Leave us our delusions—YOU fellows are happier that way.—H
Dear Helen: My husband is a great hunter and got a new hunting dog. He is three years old. The man who trains dogs said he had to have kindness to get him used to the change of masters. So the dog sleeps in bed with us each night—in the middle—and at 10 and three o'clock a.m. I have to take him for a walk.

We have no other marital problems, but Helen, after 20 years of marriage, should I become a dog-sitter? I love my husband but that dog is, literally, coming between us.—R.M.

Dear R.: Stop me if I'm wrong, but I've always understood that hunting dogs lose their zing when they're made into house pets. Anyway, you might tell your husband that HIS "house pet," wife variety, will lose her zing if the dog doesn't sleep in a bed of his own... preferably out doors where he can attend to his OWN three a.m. walk.—H

Dear Helen: My husband and I have been happily married for 22 years. We have no children. About two years ago he became involved with his boss's secretary, a divorced woman of 25.

Our sexual pattern throughout this period did not change. He claims he loves me dearly. The girl came to me and demanded

Mrs. Agnew Busy Making a 'Home'

By JOHN WOODFIELD
Associated Press Writer
ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The wife of Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, Republican nominee for the vice presidency, is a plump, 5-foot-4 brown-eyed brunette who says her principal job will continue to be "making a home" for her husband and their four children.

Mrs. Agnew—her friends call her Judy—said when her husband was elected governor in 1966 that she planned to stay in the background, and that plan apparently hasn't changed.

"I go to receptions and I get up and do what I'm doing here today," she said Thursday, "but I'm not the speaker of the family. That's Spiro's job."

"I'll still make brief remarks at luncheons and teas and so on, when the occasion demands it, but I'm not a speechmaker. I'm not a real campaigner," she said when he took office in 1967.

But campaigner or not, she has boundless energy and frequently travels with her husband and sometimes attends functions in various parts of the state when her husband has other commitments.

Mrs. Agnew loves to cook. She said when she moved into governor's house that she hoped "to be able to do some cooking myself."

"Ted loves my spaghetti and meat sauce... and crab cakes," she said.

But with Agnew campaigning for vice president, there'll be little time now for home cooking.

Although Mrs. Agnew and her husband grew up near each other and she graduated from Forest Park High School in 1940, three years after he did, they did not meet until both were working at Maryland Casualty Company. She was a secretary and he was a legal aide working his way through law school.

"He says he tripped over me in the file room," she recalls smiling.

Born Elinor Isobel Judafind on April 23, 1921, she is the daughter of the late Dr. W. Lee Judafind, a chemist and vice president of the Davidson Chemical Co. of Baltimore.

She and Agnew were scheduled to be wed at Christmas time in 1941, but Pearl Harbor delayed the wedding until the following May.

They have four children—Pamela, 25, a social studies teacher who lives in Baltimore; James Randy "Randy," married and the father of a baby boy, he is stationed with the Navy in Vietnam; and Susan, 20, and Kimberley, 12, both living at home.

I give my husband up. He pleaded for me to stay and forgive him, claiming the affair had ended. I'm sure it has.

But she continues to call me daily and tell me he loves only her. He tells her to stop, and she denies making the calls. We are both wondering whether we should talk to my husband's employer, or how can we make her give up?—VERY TROUBLED

Dear Troubled: Why not make a tape recording of this woman's next telephone call to you, then play it back, and tell her if she bothers either you or your husband again, you'll play it to the boss? This should stop her.—H

See New War as Inevitable

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
CAIRO (AP) — A frequent spokesman for President Gamal Abdel Nasser said today that a fourth war between the Arabs and Israel is a certainty and Egypt will have to deliver the first blow.

Muhammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said his weekly editorial that although war is certain, the Israelis will have a long wait before the attack.

The Arabs will not venture to strike until they are sure of their ability to drive the Israelis out of the territories they occupied in the 1967 war.

Heikal said he did not believe current peace efforts by special U.N. representative Gunnar Jarring would be successful. He said Israel would never agree to exchange the occupied territories for "more words by Arabs to the effect they would relinquish belligerency," and the Arabs would never agree to a formal peace treaty with Israel.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What ever may be the appeal of Richard M. Nixon as a candidate for president, he proved on Thursday morning to be his party's best television producer.

Candidate Nixon's stage-managing of the announcement of his choice of a running mate gave the big Republican show a surprise climax that followed the only suspense created during the four days.

Of course, the form and protocols of the unwieldy political convention were constructed long before the existence of television or even radio, and in days when the William Jennings Bryan school of oratory was in higher public esteem than it is today.

But it does seem a shame that the most meaningful speech of the convention, the candidate's acceptance speech, should come to the ears of the nation's millions after more than three days of speech-making and a steady stream of political chatter.

Presumably the Democrats have been monitoring their rivals' Miami Beach production in an effort to learn how to avoid some traps, but it is doubtful that much can be done to enliven the proceedings in Chicago.

Nixon, asking his conferees to refrain from discussing his possible choice for vice president—and making the request stick—caught the television analysts, rumor-mongers and political experts by surprise. It was a weary-looking candidate, after one hour of sleep since his nomination, who walked before the television cameras Thursday around noon and announced his choice of Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew.

Minutes before, the TV talk had concentrated on three names: Sens. Mark Hatfield and Howard Baker and New York Mayor John Lindsay. Surprise—almost shock—was evident in their voices.

CBS wasted no time in inviting Nixon "to participate with your Democratic opponent" in a series of broadcast discussions during the campaign. The invitation, by CBS President Frank Stanton, was accepted by Nixon through his communications manager, Herb Klein, the network said.

Presumably the other networks are just as eager for televised confrontations between

Editor Favors Mrs. Johnson

FORDYCE, Ark. (AP) — The weekly Fordyce News-Advocate endorsed Virginia Johnson Thursday in her Democratic runoff primary battle with Marion H. Crank for governor. Editor W. R. Whitehead said in a signed, front-page editorial that Mrs. Johnson was well-qualified to serve as governor, and that he believed she would "restore to Arkansas a moral, political and business climate conducive to winning and keeping the confidence of all the people."

The editorial noted that Mrs. Johnson was the nation's first woman senator 35 years ago and that it recently elected Mrs. W. F. Norrell to Congress from the old 6th District.

Whitehead said he came to know Mrs. Johnson well in 1966 when he was codirector of press relations in the Democratic state campaign headquarters. Jim Johnson, Mrs. Johnson's husband, was the Democratic nominee for governor in 1966.

The major party candidates.

A resolution suspending a section of the Federal Communications Act which requires television to provide equal time for all candidates for an office has been passed by the House and awaits Senate action.

That section was suspended in the 1960 campaign and made possible the famous confrontations of Nixon and John F. Kennedy.

Nixon concededly was the loser in the encounters—he has been making jokes about his performance during this campaign—but he obviously believes that he has learned how better to handle his broadcasting appearances in the intervening years.

Four years ago, although the broadcasters pushed mightily for congressional action to permit Johnson-Goldwater debates, no suspension was passed.

Columbus navigated by dead reckoning on his voyage of discovery.

McLain Gets No. 23 in Drive for 30

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Many great pitchers have tried the climb toward the coveted 30-victory season in the last 44 years, and all have stumbled. Now along comes Denny McLain.

The 24-year-old right-hander for the Detroit Tigers took the 23rd step toward the top Thursday night, and he shows no sign of faltering.

McLain breezed through a six-hitter behind a 15-hit attack that buried Cleveland 13-1 for his fifth straight victory, and Detroit's fifth in a row.

With 50 games remaining, McLain has some 12 more starts to take those last seven steps, steps the Tigers are counting on to help them wrap up the American League pennant. No. 23 retained the Tigers' 6½ game lead over Baltimore.

The Orioles kept pace by belting four home runs that ruined Minnesota 10-3 for Baltimore's ninth victory in 11 games.

In other games, Ray Culp and Boston tripped the Chicago White Sox 1-0, Washington slugged California 7-2 and Oakland bounced the New York Yankees 6-4.

In the National League, St. Louis nudged Cincinnati 1-0 in 11 innings, Philadelphia beat Los Angeles 1-0, the Chicago Cubs whipped Atlanta 4-0 and Pittsburgh downed Houston 4-3 in the only games scheduled.

The last pitcher in the major leagues to win 30 games was Dizzy Dean in 1934. Dean added 28 in 1935 and since then many have come close.

Hal Newhouse won 29 in one season, Robin Roberts won 28, Sandy Koufax, Billy Walters, Don Newcombe, Dizzy Trout and Bob Feller each won 27 and Carl Hubbell, Koufax, Newhouse and Feller each won 26.

McLain, who has lost only three times, seems to have a good chance to succeed where they failed. Along with a heavy-hitting club behind him, he has been almost untouchable on the mound.

The Cleveland run in the fourth inning was the first earned run off him in 32 innings. Bill Freehan supplied most of the punch, hammering a three-run homer in a six-run third inning against Sonny Siebert, 11-9, and adding a solo blast, his 16th, in the eighth as Detroit swept the four-game set.

Winner Tom Phoebus, 13-10, started Baltimore's home run barrage with the first of three homers that produced five runs in the third inning against Jim Kaat, 8-8. Paul Blair slammed a three-run shot and Curt Motton hit a solo. Frank Robinson added his 10th in the fifth.

Phoebus went seven innings before Dave Leonhard took over with two on in the eighth.

Culp, 8-4, was the whole story for Boston, hurling a four-hitter and singling home the only run in the second inning as he out-dueled Joe Horlen, 8-11. The victory was the eighth in nine games for the Red Sox and completed a four-game sweep of their series with the White Sox.

Kon McMillen hammered two homers for three runs and Hank Allen stroked a two-run blast as Jim Hannan, 7-2, won his fourth in a row for Washington by scattering eight hits.

The Yankees were the victims of an umpire's judgment when pinch hitter Ted Kubiak broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning with a ground rule double that scored Reggie Jackson from first base.

Umpire Hank Soar ruled that Jackson would have scored, and allowed the run, precipitating a loud protest from New York manager Ralph Houk.

Hurling by Wise, Allen's Homer Win

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Strategically speaking, it wasn't the best of nights for managers Harry Walker and Dave Bristol. But there was no strategy in the world Walt Alston could use against Rick Wise and Rich Allen.

Wise pitched a brilliant one-hitter and Allen's 23rd homer gave Philadelphia a 1-0 victory over Los Angeles Thursday night. There was little Dodger Manager Alston could do about it.

But a bit of Walker's managerial maneuvering backfired as Pittsburgh beat Houston 4-3 and St. Louis shaded Cincinnati 1-0, collecting as many hits in one inning off Bristol's relief pitcher as they had in nine against his starter.

In the only other National League game scheduled Thursday, Chicago's Bill Hands shut out Atlanta 4-0.

In the American League, Boston blanked Chicago 1-0, Oakland topped New York 6-4, Washington battered California 7-2, Detroit walloped Cleveland 13-1 and Baltimore bombed Minnesota 10-3.

Wise squared his record at 8-8, allowing only a bad-hop single by Bart Shirley in the third inning. The bouncer broke off shortstop Roberto Pena's glove. The young right-hander struck out five.

Bill Singer matched zeroes with Wise until the ninth when Allen opened with his 23rd homer, a long shot that landed in the center field pavilion at Dodger Stadium.

They haven't designed a strategy to battle one-hitters and home runs yet.

Unlike Alston, Walker had a fighting chance against the Pirates. Houston and Pittsburgh were tied at 3-3 in the ninth when Matty Alou walked with one out. After Fred Patek, who had homered earlier, struck out, Alou raced to second on a wild pitch.

Now Walker decided to walk Roberto Clemente, who has driven in 38 runs this season, and pitched instead to Donn Clendenon, who had 55 RBI.

Clendenon responded with a run-scoring single, breaking the tie and giving reliever Ron Kline his ninth victory in 10 decisions.

Denis Menke homered and doubled touching off a two-run game-tying rally for the Astros. Starter Ray Washburn of St. Louis and Tony Cloninger of Cincinnati locked up in a brilliant pitching duel, matching two-hit shutouts over the first nine innings.

The Reds rallied in the 10th with Johnny Bench and Tony Perez stroking consecutive one-out singles. After Tommy Helms popped up, Washburn got Mark Jones on a fly ball, ending the threat.

Bristol, figuring Cloninger had gone far enough, brought on Clay Carroll. The Cards went down in the 10th but won it in the next inning when Bobby Toland singled with one out and raced all the way home on Roger Maris's double.

Joe Hoerner, who took over for Washburn after the tough 10th, got credit for the victory and Carroll took the loss.

Billy Williams drove in two of Chicago's runs and Hands won his 13th game with a three-hitter over the Braves.

Williams' 16th homer gave Hands a quick lead and the Cub right-hander later scored two runs himself as Chicago regained second place in the National League standings.

terback Don Trull, New Orleans' Billy Kilmer threw for two touchdowns and had another nullified by a penalty in last week's loss to Los Angeles.

The other Saturday games are Atlanta vs. Washington at Tampa, Fla., Baltimore vs. Chicago at Birmingham, Ala., New York at Green Bay, all in the NFL, and Cincinnati at Denver and San Diego at Oakland in the AFL.

In addition to the now canceled Mexico City game, Sunday's schedule has Dallas at San Francisco in the NFL and Miami vs. Buffalo at Rochester, N.Y., in the AFL.

Texas Pro Cracks a Long Slump

By HAL PARIS

Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Lightly regarded John Schlee finally has emerged from a long slump that could lead to a $25,000 jackpot.

"I've had a bad summer," the third-year pro from Dallas said Thursday after he blistered the back-breaking 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club layout with a five-under-par 33-32-65.

Schlee's sizzling round, which included eight birdies and three bogeys, equaled the course record held jointly by Don Fairfield, Bob Rosburg and Arnold Palmer.

The 6-foot-2, 165-pound pro carried a two-stroke lead into today's second round of the $125,000 American Golf Classic.

In hot pursuit was 23-year-old Bob Lunn, who posted an opening 35-32-67.

Three strokes off the par at 68 were veterans Art Wall Jr., Gardner Dickinson, Johnny Pott, 1967 NCAA collegiate champ Hale Irwin of Colorado and Lee Elder, the 1963 Negro Golfer of the Year.

Four back of the leader at 69 were Bruce Crampton, Don Bles and Tom Weiskopf, the year's leading money winner with more than $140,000.

Still in contention at even par 70 were defending champion Palmer, Nicklaus, who started poorly with a double bogey 6 on the first hole, Larry Mowry, Hideyo Sugimoto, Frank Beard, Bobby Cole, George Knudson, Masters champion Bob Goalby and former National Amateur king Bill Campbell.

PGA titlist Julius Boros shot a 73, while U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino struggled to a 75.

The field of 127 pros and three amateurs was to be trimmed after today's round to the low 70 scores and ties.

Montreal Is Fighting for Franchise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal (AP) — Montreal received encouraging news Thursday night when it was announced the city and sponsors of the proposed National League baseball expansion team had reached an agreement on the site of a temporary stadium.

Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau emerged from a marathon four-hour meeting with sponsors, city officials and a high-ranking baseball representative and issued a brief one-minute statement to waiting reporters.

"After many hours of meetings I am pleased to inform everyone that we have succeeded in reaching a formula of agreement feasible to both parties," the mayor said.

He said the agreement "implements the use of Jarry Park stadium," a huge city-owned and operated park located in the north end of Montreal.

"The city will bring the stadium up to National League standards," Mayor Drapeau said in his hand-written statement, which he read in French first and then translated into English.

He closed his brief statement by saying that further information would be made public "during the coming week."

Before making his speech, the mayor insisted that neither he nor anyone connected with Thursday night's meeting be asked any questions following his statement.

Sitting in on Thursday's meeting along with the mayor were Georges Mantha, director of Montreal's parks and playgrounds; Charles Bronfman, Sidney Maitlin and Lorne Webster, sponsors of the proposed man of the city's executive committee; and John McHale, administrator in Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert's office.

Warren Giles, president of the National League who attended all-day meetings at City Hall Wednesday, visited Jarry Park Wednesday night with McHale and Mayor Drapeau instead of returning to New York as he said he would do.

Giles returned to New York early Thursday morning but McHale remained in Montreal all day and sat in on Thursday night's marathon meeting.

Bears Could Menace the Packers

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer

RENNESLAER, Ind. (AP) — The Chicago Bears have two distinctive changes this season, which—plus the incomparable Gale Sayers—could menace the dominating Green Bay Packers in the National Football League race.

Energetic, intense and shrewd, Jim Dooley seems bursting at the seams to make a successful debut as head coach, succeeding Bear owner George S. Halas, who retired May 27 after 40 coaching years.

The other noteworthy Bear change is a Sept. 15 NFL season opener against the Washington Redskins at Wrigley Field, the first time in history the club has not played four or five road games before enjoying the home field advantage.

Dooley, handicapped by Halas from his staff, seems cut from the same football cloth as George Allen, another top Halas aide, who fired Papa Bear by leaving the Bears to become an instant head coaching success with the Los Angeles Rams.

Dooley, apparently given free reins by Halas, already has put to work his strategem of gungho, canny football. As the Bears whipped the Dallas Cowboys 30-24 in an exhibition opener last Saturday, Dooley blended the old tight double wing and balanced T.

He also has overhauled the Bear signal calling system which he said put too much burden on the quarterbacks and often "dominated their thinking."

The new system for signal callers Jack Concannon, who should be a top NFL gunner this season, Larry Rakestraw and Rudy Bukich, will reduce the mental work load about 50 per cent, Dooley says.

"New blocking procedures also are tied in with the new signal calling routine in the huddle and scrimmage line audibles," said Dooley. "Putting this together with new shifts out of new formations, you can see we are only getting started," said Dooley.

The experimenting with various formations is aimed mainly at enhancing the running threat of Sayers, perhaps pro football's most thrilling ball carrier.

"We hope to find a way to keep the defenses from stacking on Sayers," explained Dooley. "Previously, when he ran from the slot, everybody could unload on him. Now, using Gale as a middle man behind the center, a man-in-motion, or a flanker, we may keep the defense honest."

The victory over the Cowboys indicated the Bears may have come up with another superstar find in Cecil Turner, track ace flanker from California Poly.

Turner, fifth draft choice and NCAA college division 100-meter champion, scored on an 88-yard opening kickoff return and a 72-yard pass from Concannon in his pro debut.

"We drafted Turner as a defensive back," said Dooley. "But as soon as I saw him in rookie camp, I knew he was an offensive steal. He ought to give the opposition fits back there with Sayers on kickoffs."

The fact the world champion Packers and Bears comprise half of the NFL's four-team Central Division underscores the importance of the Bears' getting off to a home opener victory against Washington Sept. 15.

Club President George "Mugsie" Halas Jr., said the Bear players were obviously pleased with a rare home opener. "It could be a big psychological lift for the whole season," said young Halas.

The Bears last season finished second in the Central Division behind the Packers with a 7-6-1

Young Fillies Matched in Alabama

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Three-year-old fillies will be Alabama bound Saturday, and it will be a rewarding trip for one of them because Dark Mirage, Lloyd I. Miller's miniature express, is temporally sidetracked.

Dark Mirage suffered a bruise on the outside of her right forefoot Thursday and will not run in the 1¼-mile, $50,000-added Alabama at Saratoga.

Among those expected to go in the Alabama are Heartland, Taste, Gay Matelda and Miss Ribot.

Also on Saturday's national program are the $50,000-added William duPont Jr. Handicap on closing day at Delaware Park, the $40,000-added Laurance Armour Handicap at Arlington Park, the $25,000-added Margate Handicap for fillies and mares at Atlantic City, the $20,000-added White Mountain Handicap at Rockingham Park and the $15,000-added La Jolla Mile at Del Mar.

Raymond Berry hasn't wasted any time impressing the Dallas Cowboys with his genius. The all-time leading pass catcher, retired after 13 seasons with Baltimore, stepped on the Cowboys' practice field in his new role as a coach, ran a couple of pass patterns to get the feel of football again, and said immediately, "There's something wrong with this field. It's too narrow." ... The Cowboys, who've used it for years, humored him by putting a tape measure on both goal lines. It came out four yards short at one end, two-and-a-half yards shy on the other.

Cowboys have put Bob Hayes, once world's fastest human, on fat man's table to pare his middle. Giants' Homer Jones, who once beat him in a 100, should grab a seat alongside. ...

Vince Lombardi was telling the Football Writers about the first time Red Blaik sent him out on a speaking assignment, when Vince was an assistant coach at Army, and the audience was all Army brass. In the middle of his talk, a three-star general down front interrupted, "How come you're playing this Ray Malavasi at guard?" Before Vince could answer, the general rasped, "I know—because he's Italian." ... Vince could feel the bristles rise on the back of his neck. His face started to turn purple. He answered, "I'm not playing him because he's Italian. It's because I'm Italian."

Accommodation All Taken for Olympics

MEXICO CITY (AP)—No new applications for tickets or lodging during the 1968 Olympic Games will receive consideration until Sept. 15. If then, an Olympics' organizing committee spokesman said today.

Ramon Alatorre, whose Oficina de Control de Alojamiento handles all such applications, said in an interview today that the backlog of unprocessed applications is expected to use up all the tickets and lodging still available.

He said that as of Thursday night his office had provided lodging for 64,219 tourists expected here for the Games that begin Oct. 12. After processing the existing backlog of applications, which he said would take until Sept. 15, the committee would decide if the office should continue processing applications received between now and then.

As the situation now stands, with construction of all the major sites almost completed, there are no hotel rooms available through the office and applicants are being assigned to rooms in private houses.

Frustrated Rockefeller Going Home

By CHARLES DUMAS
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller finished a week of political frustration today, heading for home bitterly disappointed over his failure to capture the Republican presidential nomination and resentful of Richard M. Nixon's choice for his running mate.

The New York governor masked his emotions long enough to go before the Republican National Convention Thursday night to congratulate Nixon on his victory in gaining the presidential nomination.

He was greeted by cheers and prolonged applause, repeated when he declared:

"The convention has spoken and I support the decision of the convention."

But persons close to Rockefeller said he felt deeply affronted by Nixon's selection of Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew for the supporting role on his ticket.

Agnew lost favor with Rockefeller by switching from the governor to Nixon in the critical late stages of the competition.

"This was a slap at the governor," a high-ranking Rockefeller aide contended.

The sources said Rockefeller was invited to be on the platform with Nixon Thursday night to demonstrate that the wounds of intraparty battle had been healed. But Rockefeller refused to participate in what he called a "love feast."

Instead, the sources said, Rockefeller told Convention Chairman Gerald R. Ford that he would not address the convention at all, unless he could appear by himself before Nixon arrived. His terms were accepted.

In his very brief speech, Rockefeller made no reference to the Agnew matter.

His warm reception contrasted vividly with the 1964 GOP National Convention when he was booed by admirers of Barry M. Goldwater.

A few hours after Rockefeller left the hall Thursday, New York's delegation cast the votes that put Agnew over the top in a contest with Michigan Gov. George Romney.

Delegation Chairman Charles A. Schoneck said Rockefeller had asked the delegates to affirm the traditional prerogative of the presidential nominee to name his own running mate.

Rockefeller took a similar tack in his only public comment

Back in 1948, a 19-year-old slender honey blonde easily skated to a gold medal in the Olympics at St. Moritz, Switzerland. Today, weighing the same 100 pounds, Barbara Ann Scott is still out to prove she's a champion. The only difference—she's changed sports and names. As Mrs. Thomas V. King of Chicago, Barbara Ann has switched from blades to bridles and now shows horses, competing for blue ribbons instead of gold medals.

IT'S 1948, St. Moritz, Switzerland, and Barbara Ann Scott, 19, of Ottawa, Canada, displays the style that won her the women's figure skating championship and a gold medal at the Olympics.

LIKE OLD TIMES, Barbara Ann shows she still has the stuff as she skates at a rink near Chicago.

GROOMING and feeding her horses takes up a considerable amount of Barbara Ann's time. Here, she snuggles up to a gray mare she bought as a five-gaited entry.

WORKING OUT an American saddle-bred horse, Barbara Ann shows form which helped her win 64 ribbons, including 21 firsts, last year.

spade at trick two and fished dummy's six. Bobby won with the seven and made the natural return of the heart jack.

This was allowed to hold and the heart 10 continuation was taken by South's ace. A third spade lead knocked out East's ace and the four of hearts was led to trap South's queen. Arthur, who had discarded one diamond on the third spade, took his two hearts to give the defense five tricks. Then he played ace and nine of diamonds and waited for his king of clubs as the setting trick.

At the other table Norman Kay opened the South hand with one club. They consider 18 high card points plus a 10 spot just too strong for an opening one no-trump bid. Needless to say he was mighty disappointed when Edgar Kaplan dropped him like a hot coal, but there was no way for East and West to keep him from making an overtrick. West's eight of spades covered by the nine, 10 and queen, just as if the contract were no-trump. Norman played ace and one club.

West was in with the king and led his second spade. East took his ace and gave his partner a ruff. West had no better lead available than the ace of diamonds and Norman was home for eight tricks.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Dactylography or fingerprinting is believed to be the only infallible means of identification known because no two sets of identical fingerprints have ever been found and an individual's prints never change. The World Almanac says. Acting on a proposal by Police Chief H. R. Allgood, Oskaloosa, Iowa, in 1934, became the first U.S. town to fingerprint its citizens. It was not compulsory but most of the town's citizens were fingerprinted.

Don't Swear!

It's a Bible command... a common-sense law of life. "Thou shalt not take the name of The Lord Thy God in vain." THEN WHY DO YOU DO IT???

Careless habit? Limited vocabulary? Calloused soul? ... JUST WHY DO YOU DO IT? "The Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Man, too, will hold you guilty. The members of your family, — the fellows in your office, — the stranger on the street

... none of them like it! Your family deserves better of you. Your neighbors expect better of you. God requires better of you. Go to church and break the swearing habit. Learn to respect and honor and reverence God's name. Please don't swear!

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker and attend services regularly.

government reported.

Two battalions of government infantrymen supported by an armored column and fighter-bombers battled North Vietnamese troops for five hours Thursday east of Gio Lnh.

Seven South Vietnamese were killed and 56 wounded, many during an enemy barrage of 148 artillery and mortar rounds.

It was the heaviest fighting since July 7, when U.S. Marines reported killing 201 North Vietnamese soldiers near Gio Lnh.

The battle began with an attack on a South Vietnamese patrol. The South Vietnamese rushed more ground troops and armor into the fight and called in air support. The fighting raged along a sandy stretch of the coast two miles east of the allied base at Gio Lnh and three miles below the demilitarized zone.

Elsewhere, the allies reported no major contacts in their drives to ferret out forces preparing for the "new general offensives and uprisings" which a Hanoi broadcast on Thursday promised.

A force of more than 3,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops continued operations in the A Chau Valley, the major enemy base area west of Hue and Da Nang, but still no major contact was reported.

Since they were ferried into the valley by 200 helicopters Sunday and Monday, troops of the U.S. 101st Air Cavalry Division and the Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division have reported only 15 North Vietnamese killed. They have found nearly 1,800 enemy weapons and other equipment, including four 2½-ton trucks and quantities of clothing, but this is considerably less than the vast amount of material seized when the allies first invaded the valley in April.

In the Mekong Delta 80 miles southwest of Saigon, South Vietnamese forces sweeping an area that had been attacked by dive bombers found 35 enemy bodies and freed 44 prisoners of the Viet Cong, including seven women.

Three battalions of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division reported killing 39 of the enemy in another sweep through rivers and canals 12 miles southwest of Saigon. U.S. headquarters said the Americans were trying to trap a major enemy force menacing the capital, but the operation ended Thursday night after only sporadic contacts. Eight Americans were killed and 24 wounded.

In Saigon, 19 Vietnamese were wounded today by a grenade explosion at a sidewalk cafe near a police headquarters. Eight of the victims were police. Officials said one or two terrorists approached the busy restaurant during the breakfast hour, threw the grenade and fled.

Four hours later an explosive charge went off in front of a ward office in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter, and four Vietnamese civilians were wounded.

U.S. and South Vietnamese sources warned earlier that intelligence reports indicated an increase in terrorism in Saigon this week.

No Single LE Victim Gets All Complications

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What is the skin disease that appears in the shape of a butterfly? What are the symptoms and the duration? Is it a real disease or just in the mind?

A—Lupus erythematosus (LE) is sometimes called the butterfly disease because of the configuration of the skin lesion over the bridge of the nose. It is a systemic rather than a skin disease and may cause swollen lymph nodes in the neck and armpits. Most victims have bouts of severe joint and muscle pain. The disease may affect the retina. It may cause pleurisy, heart disease, peptic ulcer, nephritis and convulsions. No one victim, however, gets all of these complications. The disease is chronic and is far nonstop chess today claiming the world record. He played 535 games before quitting. He is the Auckland University chess champion.

Q—What causes LE? Is there any cure? Can it be inherited? Where can I get the latest literature about it?

A—LE is believed to be caused by a defective gene but the defect may show up in future generations as any one of the so-called collagen diseases which, in addition to LE, include scleroderma, rheumatoid arthritis, dermatomyositis, Hashimoto's thyroiditis and several others. Pregnancy sometimes triggers or aggravates this disease.

Although there is no specific cure, much can be done to control the disease if the treatment is started early in its course. Exposure to direct sunlight should be avoided. Surgery should be undertaken only if it is necessary to save life. Antimalarial drugs, salicylates and drugs of the corticosteroid group are helpful. For more detailed information you may write to the Lupus Erythematosus Foundation, P.O. Box 92, Wykagyl Station, New Rochelle, N.Y.

Q—I use an infrared lamp every morning for 10 or 15 minutes to relieve a backache. Is this treatment beneficial? Could its prolonged use be harmful? Is it necessary to keep the lamp 21 inches from my body?

A—This type of treatment is of value in relieving inflammation and soreness and is in no way harmful. The lamp should be kept a safe distance from your body to prevent burns — 18 to 21 inches is sufficient and will still give you enough heat to be of benefit.

Highlights of Acceptance Address

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Highlights of the acceptance speech of Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon: The choice we make in 1968 will determine not only the future of America but the future of peace and freedom of the world for the last third of the Twentieth Century.

America is in trouble today not because her people have failed but because her leaders have failed.

What America needs are leaders to match the greatness of her people.

When the strongest nation in the world can be tied down for four years by a war in Vietnam with no end in sight;

When the richest nation in the world can't manage its own economy;

When the nation with the greatest tradition of the rule of law is plagued by unprecedented lawlessness;

When the president of the United States cannot travel abroad or to any major city at home without fear of a hostile demonstration—then it is time for new leadership in America.

We shall begin with Vietnam. We hope there is a chance that current negotiations may bring an honorable end to the war. We will say nothing during this campaign that might destroy that chance.

If the war is not ended when the people choose in November, the choice will be clear.

The first priority foreign policy objective of our next administration will be to bring an honorable end to the war in Vietnam. We shall not stop there — we need a policy to prevent more Vietnams.

To the leaders of the Communist world, we say: After an era of confrontation, the time has come for an era of negotiation.

We believe deeply in our ideas, but we believe they should travel on their own power and not the power of our arms.

We extend the hand of friendship to the Russian people, and to the Chinese people, and to all peoples in the world.

We shall work toward the goal of an open world — open skies, open cities, open hearts, open minds.

Today, too often, America is an example to be avoided and not followed. A nation that can't keep the peace at home won't be trusted to keep the peace abroad.

If we are to restore order and respect for law in this country there is one place to begin. We are going to have a new attorney general of the United States.

To those who say law and order is the code word for racism, this is our reply: Our goal is justice for every American.

Just as we cannot have progress without order; we cannot have order without progress. As we commit to order, let us commit to progress.

Private enterprise, far more effectively than the government, can provide the jobs, train the unemployed, build the homes, offer the new opportunities which will produce progress — not promises — in solving the problems of America.

Black Americans don't want more government programs which perpetuate dependency. They don't want to be a colony in a nation.

For most of us the American Revolution has been won; the can presidential nominee.

"It's time to jerk this fellow Becker from under the rug," Coffelt said. "He's been getting by with murder in Arkansas politics."

Coffelt said he, his father and brother, as state legislators, had unblemished voting records on pro-labor legislation.

Becker called Coffelt's version of the questioning session "absolutely untrue."

"This sounds like a desperate candidate trying to smear organized labor to get a few votes," Becker said. "I'm sorry he feels he has to say these things."

COPE endorsed Bill Wells, who led the ticket in the July 30 Democratic primary and faces Coffelt in Tuesday's runoff.

Both Wells and Coffelt appeared Thursday night at a rally at El Dorado where state Rep. Marlon H. Crank, Democratic candidate for governor, was the featured speaker.

At the rally, Coffelt denied that the Republicans would cross over and vote for him in the Democratic primary Tuesday.

At an El Dorado news conference, Wells attached no significance to reports of a crossover.

Wells also told the news conference he would make no preference on which of the Democratic candidates for governor — Crank or Mrs. Virginia Johnson — he would rather work with if he were elected. "I could work with anyone," Wells said.

Wells said he believed the Republican incumbent, Lt. Gov. Maurice Britt, would be difficult to beat and that he would get more votes than Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in the general election.

He said, however, that Britt's main function had been to serve as a stand-in for the governor at ribbon-cutting ceremonies.

He also said Coffelt's statement Thursday that if he were elected he would impeach the governor if Rockefeller left the state didn't deserve comment.

Half of State GOP Group Revolted

By BILL NIEKIRK

Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

One-half of the Arkansas delegation to the Republican National Convention revolted against GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon's choice for vice president. But Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said it was only because of the wish for a geographically balanced ticket.

The delegation, in a quick floor caucus Thursday night, cast nine votes for the vice presidential nominee, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, and nine for Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

Rockefeller pledged to support Nixon and Agnew in the race this fall, but he dodged a question about the chances of the ticket to carry Arkansas.

"I need to get home to sense that," Rockefeller said in an interview.

He said he regards Agnew as a "good personal friend and a fine person," but added: "I just wonder whether this convention is wise not to show recognition to geography."

The Arkansas delegation made no floor move to put another vice presidential candidate in nomination "because the delegation felt such a move on the part of Arkansas would be ill advised."

The governor made a brief floor appearance and noted that it was the first time in history that brothers were nominated for the presidency. He joked that he expected a first ballot victory, but since he failed, "I will support my good friend Dick Nixon."

The delegates generally regarded Agnew as a political unknown, but Nixon strategists said he would in time become an asset to the ticket.

Travis Beeson of Camden, Nixon's state campaign manager, said it will take time for the voters to learn about Agnew's background and philosophy. When they do, he said, they will realize Nixon acted properly.

"I'm very well pleased with him because of his approach to national problems, urban problems, crime problems and because he has the right attitude on civil rights," Beeson said.

But other delegates expressed concern about Agnew's lack of national political exposure.

"I would have liked to have seen someone with more appeal to young people and the energetic Republican women we have in our state," said Mrs. Dorothy Webb of Little Rock.

One of two Negroes on the delegation, E. M. Moore of Pine Bluff, said the ticket had a "good to fair" chance of carrying the state.

Asked if the ticket would be able to attract the Negro vote, he said, "It's going to be hard. But I am pledged to work for the nominee."

Howard Vance of Jonesboro said he felt the ticket could carry Arkansas, although he added he knew little about Agnew.

"I'm sure governor Rockefeller will help the ticket," he said. "I'm sure he'll do everything he can for the ticket."

Agnew Means GOP
Nod to South;
Star Visitors

There was vast surprise, and considerable grumbling, when Richard Nixon picked the governor of Maryland, Spiro T. Agnew, as his running mate on the Republican presidential ticket — GOP liberals viewing it as a total shutout.

Agnew's selection for vice-president caught both the political professionals and the writing and broadcast fraternity off guard — but at second glance the Nixon strategy makes sense.

The traditional approach to a presidential ticket is to try to balance it off either geographically or ideologically. That is, if one man is from the East the other should be from the West; if one is a conservative the other should be either a liberal or a middle-of-the-roader. But the 1968 campaign poses the special problem of George Wallace's third-party threat — and Agnew's nomination was engineered to put a damper on Wallace.

Your editor doesn't incline to third-party movements, but I can't rule them out entirely — once in a blue moon the two major parties leave the public no freedom of choice and provoke a protest vote. It was so in 1924 when both named ultra-conservatives: Calvin Coolidge for the Republicans; John W. Davis, Wall Street attorney, for the Democrats. This disgruntled middle-of-the-roader went for Robert M. La Follette and his Progressive party — but no more effectively than is usual with third-party movements. Coolidge rolled up a popular vote of 15 million, Davis 8 million, and La Follette just under 5 million. The Electoral College vote was 382-126-13.

To bolt one's party when you feel the professionals have stacked the deck is the God-given privilege of every American citizen. I have never regretted my LaFollette choice in 1924. Therefore I can understand the spirit of revolt that stirs the hearts of those who support George Wallace and his American party today. But I question whether America has been denied that freedom of choice which is a condition necessary to justify a third-party movement.

Before the Republican convention there was the possibility that Nelson Rockefeller would be nominated, which, with the probability of Hubert Humphrey as the Democratic nominee, would have presented two liberals to the country and robbed the voters of any real freedom of choice. Under those circumstances I would have supported George Wallace, win or lose.

But Nixon's nomination does give the American voter a valid freedom of choice — between conservative and liberal. The question now posed for the Wallace supporters is simply this: Are you honestly trying to beat the profligate liberal crowd now in power in Washington, or are you, for some mystical reason, attempting the impossible job of electing the Alabamian President?

Obviously the Wallace campaign will hurt Conservative Nixon the most, therefore he has put on the ticket with him Gov. Agnew, a Southerner, in the hope of uniting the South in a protest vote against the federal spending crowd.

At this moment I don't see the George Wallace American party as following the road to our country's salvation.

A young fellow, his wife and daughter, walked into our office Thursday and asked if I remembered them. Fort Smith . . . 1957 . . . and I confess I had to have my memory jogged.

The place and the time, I remembered. I was running the second statewide sales tax petition campaign, having with me Pod Rogers at headquarters in the Ward Hotel. Here he was back home in The Star office Thursday — Roy Gates, Mrs. Gates, and daughter Jayne. Roy is now with the U.S. Weather Bureau in Fort Smith.

Mixup Kills 16 Vietnam Civilians

SAIGON (AP) — American river forces fighting their way out of two ambushes five hours apart in the same spot accidentally sprayed a Mekong Delta village with automatic weapons fire, killing 16 South Vietnamese and wounding another 120, the U.S. Command announced today.

U.S. headquarters said one American convoy was attacked Thursday afternoon and another Thursday night as they moved along the Can Tho River near the village of Cal Rang, 83 miles southwest of Saigon. Both times some of the American counter-fire went over the enemy positions along the river bank and hit the village.

In the ambushes one U.S. boat was damaged and beached, and eight Americans were wounded. In the village 15 Vietnamese civilians and one government soldier were killed, and 105 civilians and 15 soldiers were wounded.

Casualties to the ambushing Viet Cong were not known. At the other end of the country just below the eastern end of the demilitarized zone, South Vietnamese troops killed 107 of the enemy in the war's heaviest fighting in a month, the Saigon

Says Crank Could Have Halted Waste

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MIAMI (AP) — Sen. Frank B. Johnston pressed her offensive Thursday night against state Rep. Marion H. Crank of Foreman in their Democratic runoff battle for the governor's office.

Mrs. Johnston said in her nightlong political telecast that Crank had been criticizing Gov. Rockefeller for extravagance, but that Crank had been in position to stop it.

She said the 1967 legislature approved the administration's requests for greatly increased expenditures.

"Who passed them?" she asked. "The same man who is my opponent. As chairman of the House Democratic caucus, he had 97 Democratic votes while Mr. Rockefeller had three Republican votes."

"Now, let me ask you: Can he escape his responsibility for this wanton waste of the taxpayer's money?"

Meanwhile, Crank told a news conference at El Dorado the legislature had accommodated the Rockefeller administration by making the financial changes it sought. He said the administration was responsible for overspending about $12 million a year.

At an El Dorado rally Thursday night, Crank denied that he represented any special interest group.

And Crank told the news conference Mrs. Johnston's charge that he was the chief sponsor of special interest legislation was "ridiculous."

He termed a "scare tactic" her observation Wednesday night that he sponsored a bill in the 1967 legislature extending

Three Killed in Miami Race Riot

By DENNIS FRIEL
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Miami's riot-torn black areas, where three Negroes were shot to death and 18 persons wounded during looting and burning, was reported by the sheriff's office today to be "under firm control."

But a National Guard force equipped with everything from shotguns to flamethrowers stuck to its guns in the "occupied territory," ready to move back into action at the first sign of new flareups.

"We are standing by," said a Guard spokesman, "waiting to find out what they are going to do. Then we'll make our own move."

In the Liberty City district, where the first racial violence in recent Miami history broke out 10 miles from the site of the Republican National Convention, police Thursday faced sniping bullets and barrages of rocks and bottles.

Then they struck back. Two Negroes were fatally wounded during an exchange of gunfire at an apartment house.

Later, when a 550-block area embracing Liberty City was barricaded and swept by National Guard troops, another Negro was shot off a porch balcony in the Central Negro District to the south.

Sheriff E. Wilson Purdy declared a 6 p.m. curfew in an area bounded by Northwest 73rd Street on the north, the Northwest 36th Street Airport X-

Congressional Delay Doooms Fund to Help Police Deal With Riots

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delays in Congress and the White House apparently have doomed any chance for setting up this summer a special fund to help law enforcement agencies deal with riots.

Such a fund was provided for in the omnibus crime control bill President Johnson signed into law June 19.

Although the long-range procedure for the fund is complex, the bill contained a special provision for this summer that cut through much of the red tape.

The deadline for 1968, however, was set for Aug. 31, considered a realistic date by the Senate Judiciary Committee when it drew up the provision last spring.

The deadline is now but three weeks off and the Justice Department spokesman said it did not have any to award.

And even if it did, the Law Enforcement Assistant Administration that would award them has still to be appointed and get into action.

The congressional source said it now appeared completely unlikely the agency could be appointed, receive and screen applications and set up machinery for making any grants by Aug. 31.

It is yet to be signed by the President.

Before funds can be passed out, however, the President also must appoint members of a new agency to receive, screen and decide on applications for aid.

The section of the crime bill containing this summer's anti-riot funds provides for grants to states and localities to help them improve law enforcement techniques and personnel.

The Senate version of the overall crime bill came out of committee last April 29 and was passed in that chamber May 24.

Besides the program of helping law-enforcement efforts, it contained other, far-reaching sections dealing with wiretapping, gun controls and admissibility of voluntary confessions and other evidence.

The House passed the Senate bill intact June 6 in a reaction to the death that same day of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of an assassin's bullet.

Nixon in Full Control of Convention, Selects Agnew as Running Mate

Agnew for Order and Civil Rights

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The 29th Republican National Convention, brushing aside a disgruntled minority, has sent Richard M. Nixon off on a November election crusade aimed at putting new leadership in the White House.

A step behind him marched Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, Nixon's hand-picked selection for his running mate. Agnew's nomination provided the GOP delegates with about their only opportunity before adjournment Thursday night to register individual protest against Nixon's tight control over the convention.

The fact that 205 of the convention's 1,333 delegates were willing to go on the record in opposition to Nixon's personal choice for his No. 2 man cast doubt on the nominee's claim in his acceptance speech that the GOP "stands united before the nation tonight."

With some of the party liberals participating in what had the earmarks of a spontaneous revolt, Agnew polled 1,128 votes and Gov. George Romney of Michigan 178. Another 12 were scattered among other quickie candidates with 15 abstentions.

There was never any question about the convention's acceptance of Nixon's surprising choice of Agnew, barely known nationally except for his law-and-order stand and his tough lecturing of Negro leaders.

But the sour reaction of party liberals — or moderates as some of them prefer to be called — was reflected in the scattered voting against Agnew.

Had not Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Nixon's major challenger for the top nomination, and James A. Rhodes of Ohio, a holdout against Nixon's nomination, ordered their delegations to stay in line for Agnew there might have been an even larger protest.

Nixon got a five-minute ovation before he could start his acceptance speech. He was interrupted frequently with applause as he asserted in the course of his speech that "this time we're going to win."

The nominee, preparing to depart for Mission Bay, Calif., for a rest and strategy sessions, also called down his control of party machinery.

He gave the signal for the reelection of Ray C. Bliss as national chairman. Bliss declined comment, but there seemed little doubt he would agree to remain.

Primarily a political technician, Bliss stayed clear of the fight for the presidential nomination as almost no chairman before him had done.

As with most presidential candidates, Nixon is expected to run the campaign with his personal organization, The National Committee organization will supply auxiliary services and raise money.

In his acceptance speech, Nixon reported that he had talked to Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower and she told him the former president's heart was with him at the convention.

"Let's win this one for Ike!" Nixon shouted and the crowd which jammed the 18,000-seat Convention Hall roared its approval.

Eisenhower had endorsed Nixon's bid for nomination before the convention.

In what promises to be the themes of his campaign, Nixon hit hard at the issues of law-and-order, and the Vietnam war.
